

Dear Parents,

Minnetonka Schools will be heading into spring break after tomorrow, and I've included important information in this communication before we start our first day of e-Learning on April 6. There is one attachment and two links for you to click on for further information. The attachment discusses how we will run school through the e-Learning approach. Your child's teacher will communicate how to find the "landing page" for your child's daily schedule. Teachers will have the daily plan/schedule posted by 8:00 a.m. each day.

The links include a video message from me and a story read by our Queen of Kindergarten, Wendy Judd. We are so lucky to have the Queen of Kindergarten on staff at our school! Enjoy the story with your children.

Deephaven e-Learning Plan

We are all new to the e-Learning approach, and I ask that we remain patient with each other. Parents, students and staff will work to build capacity for this model and make adjustments as needed. I realize this may be difficult for some of our parents, especially those families where both parents work and those with younger children. Please work with your child's teacher to address any challenges you are facing at home with this approach. Our goal is to make sure students are still learning during this time.

Finally, I hope you are all adjusting to the different way of life in your home. Stay well!

Sincerely,

Bryan McGinley
